HOUSTON, Texas (August 14, 2023) – Neuhaus Education Center, a Houston-based non-profit organization dedicated to promoting Literacy for All, is excited to announce a double feature film viewing followed by engaging panel discussions with influential leaders at their Unlocking Literacy: Houston, We Have a Solution! event on Tuesday, October 24, 2023, at Jones Hall, St. Thomas University. A book signing with Ameer Baraka will follow The Right to Read and panel discussion. Born to humble beginnings in New Orleans, Ameer's early life was as gloomy and as ill-fated as a young life could have been. In and out of the prison system as a kid for transgressions ranging from youthful indiscretions to major crimes, he was seemingly on a one-way trip to oblivion. Almost illiterate when he went to prison, he was diagnosed with dyslexia and learned to read in his mid-twenties while behind bars. His book, UNDIAGNOSED: The Ugly Side of Dyslexia promotes early detection of the learning disability in schools and awareness and support for prison inmates in the United States.
